DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-14, drawn to method of detecting a mutation in PCA-1 gene.

Group II, claim(s) 15, 18-19, drawn to nucleic acids.

Group III, claim(s) 16, drawn to protein.

Group IV, claim(s) 17, drawn to antibody.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I-IV do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The special technical feature of Group I is considered to be the PCA-gene. Duncan et al. (2002, cited on IDS) teach isolation and purification of the PCA-1 gene (ABH1 gene) (see pg. 16660). Thus, the technical feature linking the recited groups I-IV does not constitute a special technical feature as defined by PCT Rule 13.2, as it does not define a contribution over the prior art.
3. Each group named above is subject to further restriction. Applicant is required to further elect a specific mutation to which the claims of group II, III, IV and claims 3-13 for group I, will be limited to. For example if applicant elects mutation 1090 claims 1-2 will be examined generically, claims 6-9 will be examined to the extent the claim reads on mutation 1090, and claims 5, 10-13 will be withdrawn. This is NOT an election of species. Claims 3-13, 15, and 16 are claimed in Markush-type format. According to PCT Rule 13.2 and to the guidelines in Section (f)(i)(A) and Section (f)(i)(B)(1) of Annex B of the PCT Administrative instructions, all alternatives of a Markush group must have a common property or activity and a common structure. The mutations of the nucleic acids and proteins of the abovementioned claims each have a different chemical structure and do not share a common structure. Furthermore, the nucleic acid sequences or proteins do not share a common property or activity. Upon election of any group that contains any of the aforementioned claims, Applicant is required to elect one of the members of the group set forth in the claim, as set forth above. This is not an election of species, but rather an election of a distinct invention, owing to the functional differences between the members of the Markush-like group. Absent evidence to the contrary, each such nucleotide sequences are presumed to represent an independent and distinct invention, subject to restriction requirement pursuant to 35 USC 121 and 37 CFR 1.141. By statute, “[i]f two or more independent and distinct inventions are claimed in one application, the Commissioner may require the application to be restricted to one of the inventions.” 35 U.S.C. 121. Pursuant to this statute, the rules provide that “[i]f two or more independent and distinct inventions are claimed in a single application, the examiner in his action shall require the applicant... to elect that invention to which his claim shall be restricted.” 37 CFR 1.142 (a). See also 37 CFR 1.141(a). Searching more than one of the claimed patentably distinct sequences represents a serious burden to the office.

4. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

6. The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained.

Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoiner in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoiner. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
